BALLARINI PAOLO & FIGLI SPA

A leading brand in the top sector of non-stick cooking utensils, Ballarini has been on the market for more than one century and five generations. It exports to many countries around the world, and covers all market segments. Ballarini is unusual in that it boasts an in-house aluminium lamination department and uses the most advanced non-stick coating systems, among these titanium. The whole production cycle takes place within the company; a choice that controls and guarantees the absolute quality of the product. Parallel to the production quality control, a research and development department works on product, material and application innovation.
